Kingdom Principles 160

Touching the Scars of Others (A Real-Time Invitation)

What if the moments that feel like interruptions...
are actually invitations?

Not random.
Not accidental.
But highlighted.

When Holy Spirit draws your attention to someone—their pain, their story, their struggle—you're not just seeing it...

You're being invited to touch it.

Jesus Still Has Scars

After the resurrection, Jesus didn't erase His scars.

He offered them.

"Put your finger here... see my hands." (John 20:27)

Why?

Because scars tell a story:

- Pain that didn't win
- Love that remained
- Redemption that is now available

Now... We Carry That Same Invitation

Through Holy Spirit, you are now:

- A witness of love
- A carrier of presence
- A responder in real time

So when someone is "highlighted"...

You're not being asked to fix them.

You're being invited to:

- See them (like God sees them)
- Acknowledge the scar (without fear or judgment)
- Touch it with love (through presence, words, or even a simple $20 gift)

This Is the Exchange

The world says:

- Avoid pain
- Protect yourself
- Stay comfortable

The Kingdom says:

- Step in
- Be present
- Let love flow

That $20...

That conversation...

That moment of eye contact...

It becomes a point of contact where:
their wound meets His love.

Important Truth for the Influencer

You are not the healer.

You are the one willing to get close enough for love to be felt.

And that's where most people stop—because scars can feel uncomfortable.

But what if...

That discomfort is actually the doorway
to the most authentic Kingdom moment available?

Simple Activation (Street Version)

When someone is highlighted:

1. Stop
2. Ask – “Holy Spirit, what are You doing here?”
3. Receive – a word, a nudge, a feeling
4. Respond – simply, naturally, without pressure

One-Line Anchor “We don’t avoid scars... we meet them with love.”
